

THE PACE GETTING TOO HOT.

BULLS TRY TO HEAD OFF THE DOOM IN SPECULATION.

But a Money-Making Public Has Got Its Speed Up, and is Flooding the Street With Buying Orders—Western Union Takes Another Jump—Standard Oil People Gunning for Short in Cotton Oil.

HE big bulls endeavored to check the advance in stocks this morning, the pace having become too fast to suit even the leaders on that side. They fear that if the "boom" runs wild it will end in collapse and involve them as well as the unfortunate bears. When the great American public takes hold, however, it is no easy matter for any speculator or set of speculators to oppose it, and this is the situation just at present. As fast as one lot of operators sell out another lot takes their place, and the buyers become bolder and extend their dealings.

In this way the volume of business is reaching larger and larger proportions. The speculative interest is spreading, and London, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, and other cities are sending in their orders to the delight of the commission brokers. For the past week or ten days the market has been having a sorry time of it.

Armour showed his teeth again this morning and put up St. Paul in lively fashion. The stock jumped from 78 to 79 1/2, and enormous dealings were in fact announced that the company's earnings for the second week of November showed an increase over 1896 of $31,587 both bulls and bears were in a frenzy of excitement. The big buyers here were Laidenburgh, Thalman & Co., Ed. Linn, Bissell, T. W. Pearsall & Co., L. L. Benedict and L. L. White & Co.

Many other orders for the week. Western Union reached 8 1/2, and a statement that Gen. Eckert believes the company will make a clear million a year out of the B. & O. system brought in outside orders for the stock. Northern Pacific preferred and Wheeling and Lake Erie were great favorites. The former crossed 47 and the latter 50. Wheeling has stepped right to the front as a bull, and the stock about Sidney Dillon assuming the Presidency.

Speculation broke out in a new spot this morning. Cotton Oil certificates which have been dormant for some time, bounded up enormously. The price of the oil rose from 93 to 95 1/2. Dominick & Dickerman, Blood & Henriques were heavy buyers. It is said that the Standard Oil people are gunning for the shorts in Cotton Oil and mean to have the scalp.

Money easy at a 4 1/2 per cent. Foreign exchange quiet and without material change in quotations. Richmond bonds were strong and higher. The Bank of England discount rate remains at 4 per cent. The Bank lost $44,000 on balance during the week ended yesterday, and the proportion of reserve to liabilities is now 47 1/2 per cent. against 47 10 per cent. last week. Strength still characterizes the speculation in American railway securities. The Bank of France gained 50,000 francs silver, but lost 6,000 francs gold during the week.

ON THE WAY TO WASHINGTON.

The British Fisheries Commissioners Off for the Capital.

Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian Minister of Finance and a colleague of Mr. Chamberlain in the Fisheries Commission, arrived in this city last night, stopped at the Brevoort and went to Washington in the morning in company with Mr. Chamberlain. Accompanying Sir Charles were J. S. D. Thompson, Canadian Minister to Justice; Major-General Cameron, his official secretary; Wallace Graham, Q.C., assistant legal adviser; C. O. Chapman, private secretary, and Mr. George Johnson, a fisheries statistician.

Sir Charles expressed strong hopes of an amicable adjustment of the fisheries troubles.

The Princeton Club's First Meeting.

The Princeton Club, of this city, will hold its first regular meeting of the present season at the Hotel Brunswick this evening. The guest of the evening will be Prof. Sloane, who will tell the graduates something about the progress made recently in enlarging the curriculum and establishing new courses of study at the Princeton University.

Local News in Brief.

The funeral services of George Wolfe Bruce, a son of the type-founder, took place at Calvary Church, Fourth avenue and Twenty-first street, this morning.

A solemn requiem mass and month's mind was celebrated this evening in St. Patrick's Cathedral for the Rev. John J. Kane, who died last night.

The trial of Peter J. Gorman for the murder of Michael Kelly, of this city, was postponed today in the General Sessions Court until tomorrow.

The high board fence at One Hundred and Twenty-third street and Second avenue was blown down this morning on Albert Gustafson, of 34 East One Hundred and Twenty-third street, inflicting slight scalp wounds.

Antonio Bass, of 161 Union street, Brooklyn, and John P. Bass, of 161 Union street, Brooklyn, were held to the Essex Court to-day for breaking into Harris Kaplan's house, of Bayard street, and stealing seven pairs of trousers.

During a rain storm this morning in the tenement-house, 48 East One Hundred and Twenty-third street, a crowd of Italian laborers, Jani Argini was beaten on the head with a club by Antonio Freely. The latter escaped, and Argini was sent to the Hudson House.

Butler, a lunatic's helper, was held at the Jefferson Market Court this morning on a charge of stealing $90 worth of brass fixtures from the house of a lady at 100 West Twenty-third street. Mrs. B. is East Twenty-seventh street, where she had been working.

IT WAS A COSTLY DESSERT.

Mrs. Adams' Sense of Humor Costs Her a Pocketbook and Three Rings.

Sometimes one is obliged to pay rather dearly to enjoy a joke at another's expense. So it was yesterday. At about 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Mrs. A. Adams, of 24 East Twenty-fourth street, while on her way home from a shopping trip, was worrying herself over the fact that she had left home without making arrangements for a dessert at dinner that night. As she reached the corner of Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue she saw a stand where, in addition to various kinds of fruits were sold peanuts and chestnuts. Thinking that she would substitute a little pleasant in line of dessert, Mrs. Adams stopped and bought 10 cents worth of mixed peanuts and chestnuts, intending to serve them in a dish well covered with napkins, as "dessert extraordinary."

Then, with her dessert in a paper bag, Mrs. Adams visited an apothecary, and there discovered, to her dismay, that her pocketbook was missing. Knowing that she had had it a short time before at the fruit stand, she returned there and questioned the Italian of whom she had bought the nuts. He replied that a pocketbook had been left there, but that his sister had given it to one of two ladies who were at the stand at the same time. Mrs. Adams then asked the sister and the purse was given her just about to take the up-town elevated when Matilda Noble, the young Italian girl, offered them the purse, saying, "Madame left her pocketbook here. I saw it when she came and Matilda returned to her brother with the feeling of duty done."

Mrs. Adams describes the pocketbook as a small, black one, oblong in shape, and says that, in addition to $5 in bills and a small amount of change it contained three rings, two of them being valuable, both on account of their worth and from sentiment. One of these was set with a sapphire and the other with a sapphire. The setting of the first named was in the shape of a Greek cross, in the ends of which were eight small diamonds surrounding a large central diamond. The sapphire was in a plain setting, and a very beautiful stone, taking on a blue color in the day but showing red at night. The third ring was without a stone, but the setting was engraved "A. E. to A. F. 1878."

Mrs. Adams feels very badly over the loss. She will put the matter into the hands of the police. She did not enjoy her dessert.

AN EASY WAY TO PAY BILLS.

It Bids Fair, However, to Get Mr. Chase Into Serious Trouble.

Frank C. Chase, age twenty-eight years, a married man of leisure, was a prisoner in the Jefferson Market Police Court today. His wife, a handsome young woman, with a baby in her arms, stood by his side. He was charged by Adolph Reisenberg, of 819 Sixth avenue, with passing a worthless check for $75 upon H. C. F. Koch & Co., merchants, of Sixth avenue. On Nov. 7 Chase purchased at the store a bill of $90 worth of infants' wear, gloves and hosiery, and gave the check upon the City National Bank of Worcester, Mass., and got $46 in change. A few days later he called at the same store with his wife and gave a $100 check upon the same bank. These checks were discovered to be worthless.

Detectives while looking for him learned that he had passed a check for $35 upon Del. Chase was followed to Brooklyn, where his wife has well-to-do relatives, but he was arrested at length at the West Side Hotel, at Sixth avenue and Fifth street. Chase hastily tore up a number of papers and threw them into the store, from which they were rescued by Detective O'Brien. There was a check for $75 dated Nov. 14 on the same bank, a draft for $150 at thirty days on the Farmers National Bank, Bryon, O., and a number of bills.

The prisoner claimed that he had an account originally of $2,400 in the Worcester Bank. The President of the bank sent a letter, which was produced in court, to Mr. Koch, saying that Chase had not had an account in that bank for a year. Since that time the young man has drawn a number of checks which he has cashed at various banks in the country. Within a month, the President of the bank says, more than half a dozen of his checks have been protested. Chase has been married four years. His father left a large estate, of which he is executor. The wife, with tears in her eyes, said that her husband was no swindler, and she would get her brother, who is a lawyer in Brooklyn, to defend him. The accused was held in $1,000.

TOOK THE DYNAMITE CARTRIDGE HOME.

Young Cunliffe's Mother Blows Up When Making an Investigation.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 17.—Yesterday afternoon Charlie, the thirteen-year-old son of Wellington Cunliffe, found a dynamite cartridge, such as is used in blasting rock, in Gorham street and ran home with the prize before other boys could secure it.

Last evening his mother picked up the cartridge from the table, where the boy placed it, and began an investigation. She had no sooner taken a hairpin from her head and commenced to scratch on the outer surface than a tremendous explosion occurred. She was thrown insensible on the floor, the furniture was badly damaged and a general slaking up occurred. Mr. Truettworthy, who was called, found that Mrs. Cunliffe had two fingers blown off; that a bad gas had been inhaled on her breast and on one ear.

One story about in the locality is that the cartridge was placed in the roadway in the hope that the children of a certain family would pick it up and take it home.

Alleged Revival of the Buzzard Gang.

READING, Nov. 17.—Evidence is becoming abundant that the famous Welsh Mountain gang, of which the Buzzard boys were the ringleaders, is being revived. Of late robberies have been frequent around Egham and Haslemere, and Tuesday night no less than three petty burglaries were committed at Bournemouth, a small village between this place and New Holland, where they broke into William J. Lanchester's barbershop and the residence of J. E. Bean and Rev. S. K. Ott, carrying off all the valuables they could find.

Death of Attorney A. A. Cohen.

OMAHA, Nov. 17.—Alfred A. Cohen, attorney for the Central Pacific Railroad, died on a west-bound Union Pacific train between Sidney and Cheyenne yesterday. He was en route from New York to San Francisco, having left the former city last week in his special car. He had been seriously ill for some time.

Armer for the Government War-Ships.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—The Pittsburg Steel Casting Company will receive within a day or two the Government orders for the heavy armor plates for which it successfully bid. An explanatory letter was received yesterday stating that it had not been for the illness of secretary Wallace the orders would have been here some time ago.

Mine-Owner Scott Will Not Advance Wages.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—The five cents advance for coal mining agreed upon by the Columbus Convention has been refused at the extensive mines owned by Congressman Scott, of Erie.

Day and Date Set.

Positively must close Saturday night, Nov. 19, at 10 o'clock. Time almost up; everything going rapidly. The case of the trial of the two large six-story tenement houses, 718 and 720 Broadway, between the Astor place and South street, was set for trial at 10 o'clock.

Remember, this great sale must close Saturday night at 10 o'clock. On this out and remember the address, 718 and 720 Broadway, between the Astor place and South street, New York City. Both buildings open from 9 to 5 o'clock. Remember, Saturday closing at 10 o'clock.

PANIC IN A CHICAGO HOTEL.

ONE HUNDRED GUESTS OF THE SARATOGA EUROPEAN NARROWLY ESCAPE.

Awakened by Cries of Fire and Rushing Madly Through the Halls Glad in Their Nightclothes—Some of the Guests Are Missing, but No Dead Bodies Have So Far Been Found.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Not fewer than 100 guests, occupying six floors of the Saratoga European Hotel, in Dearborn street, were aroused from their beds shortly before 2 o'clock this morning by the ringing of the electric fire-alarm in their rooms. Smoke was pouring through the halls and creeping in at the transoms.

Cries of "Fire!" were heard on every landing, and an indescribable panic ensued. Few stopped to secure their clothing or valuables. Women and men fled through the halls, down the stairway and out into the street clad in their nightclothes. The clattering of the fire engines aroused the occupants of several hotels in the neighborhood, and the excitement became intense.

The inmates fumbled over each other down the stairs in their hurry to escape. An overcoat or a cloak over the nightclothes was the scanty costume that enveloped most of the guests.

The lodgers in the Windsor were awakened by the noise of the engines, and at first there was quite a scare, but the excitement subsided when it was learned that there was no immediate danger, and the people set about assisting the scantily clad lodgers of the burning hotel.

The Windsor was overpowered last night, and there was, therefore, no room for those burned out, but they were made as comfortable as circumstances would permit. Many of them left for other hotels with what effects they had saved. Those of the guests who had not taken refuge in the Windsor Hotel sought hallways in the buildings surrounding in which to don their clothes.

In the entrance of the First National Bank building stood four women, scantily clad and shivering with the cold. Many told stories of their narrow escapes.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the kitchen of the Saratoga restaurant, and soon the flames were high above the roof of the seven-story structure and threatening the Journal building to the south and the Windsor Hotel across the alley to north. Half an hour's hard work subdued the fire sufficiently to allow the truck companies to hoist their ladders and make a search of the rooms. It was at first believed that some of the guests had been caught in the fire, but none were found.

At 2.45, after several of the engines had been dismissed, the fire broke out afresh on the top floor, and in a short time the entire seventh floor was ablaze, with a strong breeze fanning it in the direction of the Journal building to the south. The rear, from the lower floor clean to the roof, was also ablaze, and the shaft formerly used as a freight elevator acting as a fune. The building was flooded with water, and soon the fire was entirely under control.

Several guests of the Saratoga are missing, though a thorough search failed to find any dead bodies in the building. Many of the guests were injured during their flight out of the hotel.

LINGG AND HIS DYNAMITE BOMB.

The Jury Returns a Verdict of Nuldee—A Showman Offers $10,000 for the Body.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The jury in the Lingg inquest yesterday, after being out twenty-five minutes, returned with a verdict that "Louis Lingg came to his death on the 10th of November from shock, hemorrhage and fatty embolism of the heart, caused by the explosion of a bomb about two inches long, half an inch in diameter and filled with dynamite, said bomb being exploded by his own hand with suicidal intent."

During the inquest County Physician Mayer said that the place of concealment of the bomb was within the bomb-maker's body. Otherwise, it would have been found during the search for which Lingg was subjected. John Buehler, President of the Waldheim Cemetery Association, speaking of the probability that the dead Anarchists would be permanently interred at Waldheim, stated that the directors would never again allow such speeches or such scenes as took place in the cemetery last Sunday. Any plans for monuments or inscriptions thereon will be refused to meet the approval of the directors of the cemetery before erection.

An enterprising showman has offered $10,000 to the wife of Engel for the body of Lingg, the purpose being to exhibit it throughout the United States.

Body of a Dead Woman Found in a Pool.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

YONKONTOON, O., Nov. 17.—Early in the morning workmen discovered the nude remains of a young woman lying in a shallow pool of water just outside the town. The remains were identified as those of Mabel Paterson, alias Nellie Shipley. The girl was twenty years of age, was in the habit of being drunk, and her clothing was found near the body. Her condition indicated a struggle, and that the victim, after drinking heavily, had fallen into the pool of water and thrown her into the pool of water. The coroner is investigating.
